

Unposted letter

Dear Club Presidents,

Though Rotary promotes and appreciates small gestures of helpfulness and small acts of Service, there is no doubt that big acts result in big returns. When a Club's total membership gets involved in a service project, the collective wisdom, the collective inputs and the collective efforts can easily encompass a major project. Of course, finances are needed but more the finances, the Club will need collective efforts. In order, therefore, to involve ourselves into a major sphere of action, we need both money and work strength. If planned well in advance, this is possible. The first step would be to garner consent from a majority of its members and once agreed upon, the next step of generating funds can be undertaken. If the members have shown a common interest that meets the need of the community, each member can help in generating funds.

Do not be afraid to aim high, dream major dreams, think of big projects, plan to do better than before. It is only then you may improve upon your normal capacity. Rotary is such a fine organisation that you will realise that setting a high goal will hit the bull's eye. Needless to say that each and every Rotarian, with contributions small or big, can lubricate the wheel of service so effectively that locomotion becomes fluid and the goals that looked so distant, the dreams so unattainable, the miracles so impossible, appear within the reach of all Clubs. You are the hub. Let the wheels start rolling.

At a rather obscure meeting in one of the States of USA, a bunch of politicians were being introduced. "What are you going to do if you are chosen?" was a common question. Said one "I am going to provide better roads." Said another "I am going to ensure good water supply." This went on and when one was asked the question he replied "I am going to build a Nation." This man, with big ideas, went on to become the President of USA and is still remembered as an architect of modern USA.

Think big with your feet firmly planted on the ground and you may, one day, have the honour of building a community that owes its success story to the big ideas of a few Rotarians. I am confident that with your dedication and devotion, with your leadership and enthusiasm, with your ideas and your dreams, we cannot but succeed in fulfilling the simple but very apt requirement.

Build bridges of Friendship and make the community know — Yes! Rotary Shares!!

Rtn. Ashok Mahajan
RI Director 2007–2009

Think
Big